

IT Network Solutions

that support and enhance business effectiveness...

Today's businesses must be proactive: anticipating client requests, responding to competitive pressures, and interpreting business analytics. Corporate data must be organized, accessible, and protected -- which means that your IT network must be secure, efficient and reliable.

The majority of IT networks have become a patchwork of hardware, software, and services. To stay nimble and competitive, your network must be streamlined; yet architecting, implementing and managing it is a complex proposition requiring resources with specialized skills and the time for special projects.

Conexsys Communications can help you navigate this maze. Our professionals have solid backgrounds in IT network design, integration, and administration. In addition, we have extensive knowledge of enterprise practices across industries. Let us help you streamline your network activity and improve your business processes.

THE CONEXSYS ADVANTAGE

At Conexsys Communications, we focus on you: your situation, your pain-points, your productivity, your data management, and on your business processes. To help drive your business success, we deliver leading-edge, cost-effective technology solutions backed by robust levels of local customer support.

Conexsys is a recognized leader in the architecture, deployment, and support of enterprise network infrastructure solutions. We combine our rich history with a focus on continually upgrading our skills and certifications in leading-edge technologies and business practices. As a result, our professionals understand the intricacies of your network, your industry, and how to solve complicated problems.

Network design and administration is a multifaceted investment in the future success of your business. As a result, our solutions focus on your needs, from 24/7 managed services to ad-hoc alternatives, covering a broad range of network demands and pain-points.

OUR EXPERIENCE IS UNMATCHED

For over three decades and counting, our team of professionals continues to design, build, integrate, manage, and support IT networks for some of the largest enterprises in Canada. Both our customer retention and new client acquisition rates are strong. Partnerships with leading edge network and security vendors arm us with the tools and technical expertise to quickly and efficiently assess and optimize your IT operations.

With monitoring and measurement tools in place, Conexsys works to prevent problems before they surface. When challenges arise, your Conexsys representative can quickly identify and troubleshoot the problem. With Conexsys as your trusted network business partner, our understanding of leading edge technologies means you can focus on improving your business practices.

Our focus is on you: your company, your needs, your budget, and on your processes.

Let Conexsys ensure your network is secure, efficient, and reliable.

“We’d done enough research on the products to know what we wanted. How well the company can implement the solution, solve your problems with the solution and maintain it properly; those were the key issues for us.”
